International NASH Day 2021: *NASH Around the World

Thursday, June 10, 2021

NASH—advanced fatty liver disease—is on the rise worldwide. Prevention, treatment, and support demand a global response.

Global Liver Institute (GLI) conducts International NASH Day each year. To celebrate IND 2021, on June 10, GLI is hosting eight cutting edge virtual panels featuring international experts, leading physicians, and advocates who will share the latest insights on how to confront and mitigate this dangerous disease.

Broadcast in five languages—English, Spanish, French, Mandarin, and Hindi—the panels are:

- NASH as a Global Public Health Challenge
- NASH and Liver Cancer
- NASH and Obesity
- Pediatric NASH
- NASH and Diabetes
- Beyond the Biopsy: Innovations in Diagnostics
- NASH in Lean Individuals
- NASH: A Conversation in the Black Community

In addition, special programs and resources include:

- Video testimonials from partners in North America, South America, Europe, Africa, and the Middle East
- A message from the World Health Organization
- Patient education, downloadable, and printable materials in 16 languages
- An exclusive, ticketed, liver healthy cooking demonstration with former United States Capitol chef Daniel Thomas, of Washington, D.C., USA, supporting GLI programs. Register here.
